Dear Ysgol Gymraeg Llundain,

It's been another fun-filled week here at Ysgol Gymraeg Llundain.

"Say cheese!" The photographer from Tempest Photography visited us this past week. We have now received a sample of all of the children's individual photos - don't they look smart!? Please follow the instructions on the letter that was sent home to order copies online.

"Happy New Year!" We marked the Jewish Festival of Rosh Hashanah during our assembly this week where we learnt more about the significance of this festival and how it is celebrated. In doing this, we demonstrated the British values of tolerance and respect.

"Off we go!" The classroom wasn't the only place where the children received their lessons this week. Both pupils and staff were guided on an underwater adventure with the crew from the Natural History Museum. We discovered the existence of various creatures that live in our seas and how they have had to adapt as their habitats continue to change. It was amazing to see how colourful life is under the sea and made us appreciate 'What a Wonderful World' we need to protect.

Keep smiling!
Miss Medi

Newyddion o'r Nyth

Early Years

"Ready, steady, cook!" This week our context for learning was 'Outdoor Kitchen'. In our Tric a Chlic literacy sessions we practised making letter marks with ingredients such as salt. In our mathematics sessions we focused on measuring weight by finding out how heavy different ingredients were. In our other sessions we also had an opportunity to get messy by cooking with ingredients such as water, jelly, pasta and porridge.

Y Diweddaraaf o'r Dosbarth

Dosbarth Robin Goch

This week in Dosbarth Robin Goch we continued with our new Religious Education topic about Signs and Symbols. We began by sorting everyday examples and identified the difference between signs and symbols. We then looked more closely at a number of symbols from different world religions and predicted what their meaning could be.

The children also finished their extended writing pieces this week based on the book 'Sedna a'i Neges o'r Arctig'. We are looking forward to welcoming the book's author to school in a few weeks time.

Hwyl Gyda'r Hwyr

Wraparound Care and Clubs

Clwb yr Urdd - A fabulous flurry of feltpen activity this week as the pupils created their t-shirt designs for the Urdd Sports Volunteers. The designs will be entered into the Urdd competition this week. They also watched a short film produced by Mewn Cymeriad (The 'In character' theatre company) about Owain Glyndwr and played a short game to close! (The same theatre company will be coming to Halibalw Llundain 2022 29/10/22 to entertain the children.)

Clwb Hwyl - This week we continued to learn about the Shakespeare play 'Much Ado About Nothing' by creating masks, similar to those that would have been worn in masked balls of the time. The children thoroughly enjoyed the session - the glitter proved particularly popular!

Miri Mawr

Baby and Toddler Group

Autumn came to Miri Mawr Llundain this week and we had fun learning more about this season through singing songs and reading the book 'Ia-hw Meddai Gwdihw'. We also enjoyed some Autumn crafts and made crowns using objects such as leaves.

Know Your Values and Rights!

British Values and Rights of the Child

- This week we have promoted the following British Values: tolerance and respect
- This week we have promoted the following Rights of the Child: Articles 28 and 29
